AGENCIES WORK TO DEFEAT TAFT

Democrats Declare La Follette Faction Will Oppose Taft Electors at Fall Election

OTHER THINGS FAVOR WILSON

Assert that Stalwarts Will Oppose Electors of La Follette Faction; Two Resign

MADISON, Wis., July 22.—The Wisconsin democracy has discovered two political agencies at work which it believes will ensure the complete electoral vote for Woodrow Wilson in November. First of these is the presumption that the La Follette faction, which is in the ascendency in this state, will not vote for electors who will cast their vote for President Taft. The second presumption is that the stalwarts will not vote for the republican electors who were selected by a La Follette state central committee because they believe these electors would violate precedent and instead of voting for Taft might cast their vote for La Follette.

This, it is claimed, would result in both the stalwart and La Follette factions casting their vote for Wilson presidential electors. Credence for belief that the La Follette men will support Wilson came with the issue of La Follette's Magazine last week. The senator's weekly does not endorse Wilson in so many words, but prints a large picture of the New Jersey governor on the front of the magazine. The stalwarts consider this covert attempt to tip off the La Follette faction to vote for Wilson without the senator's having to go on record for this implied course.

Men prominent in republican councils in the state have received letters from the different republican presidential electors seeking information whether the latter felt they would be in duty bound to vote for the republican nominee in the event of their election. One of the clerks at the legislative reference library has made an examination of historical precedents, and has been unable to discover any case where an elector violated the obligation imposed upon him. It was the knowledge of this fact by some of the electoral candidates which caused two resignations and a statement of an elector-at-large that he too would resign if the republican party expected him to vot for Taft if elected. It was first believed that only two or three electors would resign, but members of the republican state central committee have received information that indicates dissatisfaction among all the electoral candidates. For this reason it is expected the committee will postpone its meting until after the primaries.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 22.—Earl Rogers, chief defense attorney in the Darrow bribery trial said when the case was resumed today that the defense expected to conclude its testimony this week. Advertising Saves Two Souls at $50 Each

CHICAGO, July 22.—Two souls were saved as the direct result of a newspaper display "ad." The advertisement cost Rev. Benjamin Mikle Brown, pastor of the Onward Presbyterian church, $100. He said today that $50 apiece for souls was cheap.

Rev. Brown receives no salary for being the pastor of the small church. He earns a living by selling life insurance. The $100 was paid out of his own pocket, and he says he will do extensive advertising in the future. The "ad" which won the two souls was headed: "God's Word," and contained Paul's speech to the Thessalonians.

"I believe," said Rev. Brown today, "that the churches will soon realize that newspaper advertising as supplementary to their working program is indispensable. I have written John D. Rockefeller asking how much good he could do advertising in newspapers."

PERKINS RUSHED TO AID COLONEL

National Committeeman Scott Tells Steel Trust Man's Activity in 1904 Fight

GAVE $15,000 FOR ONE STATE

Roosevelt's Friend Came Across to Boost Campaign in West Virginia

WASHINGTON, July 22. — How George W. Perkins, who is boosting Col. Roosevelt for re-election, rendered financial first aid to the colonel when he was running in 1904 was told to the senate committee investigating campaign contributions today by ex-Senator Nathan B. Scott of West Virvinia. Scott was a national committeeman in 1904.

"Perkins asked me as to the situation in my state," the witness said. "I told him there was a big fight on the republican gubernatorial candidate and some doubt as to his re-election. Perkins said he was a friend of Roosevelt and would not like to see West Virginia go democratic, so gave me $15,000 to help in the campaign there."

"How much did you contribute in 1904?" asked Senator Clapp.

"Nothing to the national campaign fund," Scott replied, "but I sent $30,000 or $40,000 to West Virginia for the campaign there."

One contributor to the national fund that Scott recalled was John J. McCook, who gave $1,000. He knew of no money received from J. Pierpont Morgan or Henry Havemeyer, or any "trust" magnates.

Chairman Cortelyou, the witness explained, ordered that none should be accepted from such sources. The American protective tariff league, Scott said, furnished the campaign literature in 1904, but the committee paid for it, "in good hard cash."

PLAN TO BEAT GERMAN NAVY

Egnland Will Build 21 Dreadnaughts in the Next Five Years Is Plan

LONDON, July 22.—Introducing the supplementary navy estimates in the house of commons today, First Lord of Admiralty, Winston Churchill explained that England intends increasing its ship building program during the next five years, to twenty-one dreadnaughts, or five the first year, and four annually afterwards. Fifteen hundred men would be added to the navy's personnel this year, he added, after which increases would be made as required.

Thirty-three dreadnaughts will be in commission in 1914, he said, as against Germany's twenty-nine. The work on eight cruisers now under construction, will also be hastened.

Eight battleships will be kept in the Mediterranean, it was said, with their bases at Gibraltar and Malta. Provision was made in the estimates for a fleet of air craft.

REFUSES TO GIVE BECKER SAFETY

District Attorney Will Not Let Accused Police Official Testify to Get Immunity

LIEUTENANT IS TRANSFERRED

Man Accused of Being in Partnership with Rosenthal Removed from Command

NEW YORK, July 22.—Because of a hitch which arose between the district attorney and the grand jury regarding what witnesses should be examined in the gambling probe and also because Mrs. Herman Rosenthal, wife of the murdered gambler, was too ill to appear, today's session of the grand jury investigating the alleged alliance between the gamblers and the police was ineffective. The grand jury wants to call before it Police Lieutenants Charles Becker, Dan Costigan, and Dominick O'Reilly. They have been in command of the raiding squads, which have been operating against the gamblers.

District Attorney Whitman refused to permit Becker, who was today deposed from squad duty and sent to a desk in a Bronx station, to testify unless he will sign a waiver of immunity.

Won't Give Immunity

Any witness called by the grand jury and forced to testify in any matter being investigated automatically, receives immunity. Whitman said that he did not intend that Becker should be given this advantage. To give the district attorney a chance to decide what should be done, the jury today postponed general consideration of the gambling situation until tomorrow.

Mrs. Rosenthal will probably testify tomorrow. It is said that she has all of the information her husband had and also that she has all of his memoranda, showing in detail his operations with the police force. She will also give the grand jury the names of men she says can corroborate her husband's story of how and to who i tribute was paid. It was reported today that she will directly accuse a high police official of accepting money to permit gambling houses to run.

Five Charged With Crime

Five men are under arrest charged with actual participation in the murder, and a sixth is held as a material witness.

The prisoners are: Bridgie Webber, gambler, in whose rooms at 42nd street and Sixth avenue, it is alleged the actual details of the murder plot was completed; Sam Paul, gambler and head of the Sam Paul association, at whose outing a week ago today, it is alleged, the killing of Rosenthal was decided on; Jack Rose, gambler, who hired the gray automobile the actual murderers used; Willie Shapiro and Louis Libby, chauffeurs, and joint owners of the murder car.

While not a man identified as being concerned in the actual killing has been arrested, it was said today that a confidential police alarm for them had been sent to cities where they are believed to have fled, and that their arrest may be announced at any moment.

While District Attorney Whitman refused to discuss letters threatening his life, it was learned today that private detectives are co-operating with postoffice inspectors in an endeavor to locate the writers.

Evil Spirit Forced His Marriage Says Spouse

DENVER, Col., July 22. — A sensational cross complaint is expected to be made this afternoon by counsel for Mrs. Alonzo Thompson in the suit started by her husband to disinherit her and her son, and put his entire property in trust for the promotion of spiritualism. Thompson says that he has followed the advice of the spirits implicitly for years and has thus accumulated a fortune and it is only right to leave the property to the "spooks."

Thompson and his wife were spiritualists when they met 30 years ago at a seance and are still spiritualists. Mrs. Thompson says that, though her husband is a real spiritualist, the shades which advise him are evil ones. Thompson comes back with the statement that spirits guiding him have always been good, excepting in a single instance. That was at the seance where he met the present Mrs. Thompson, when an evil spirit advised him to marry her.

JUDGE HANFORD RESIGNS TODAY

Seattle Jurist Under Shadow of Impeachment Inquiry Throws Up His Job

RUMORED TAFT URGED HIM

Federal Judge Said to Have Withdrawn Under Fire at Request of the President

SEATTLE, Wash., July 22.—Federal Judge Cornelius Hanford has telegraphed his resignation to President Taft.

This action, taken sudenly today, brought to a dramatic climax the impeachment investigation by a committee from the lower house of congress, which was ordered by the adoption of a resolution introduced by Congressman Berger of Wisconsin.

It was admitted during the morning that startling evidence brought out Saturday against Hanford involving him in a financial deal with the Northern Pacific railroad determined him to quit.

In his telegram to the president, Judge Hanford gave as his reason to resigning that he cannot stand the strain under which he is compelled to work now and that he desires to retire while he still has some health left.

The effect of the resignation, upon the impeachment proceedings is uncertain. As soon as the judge's resignation was announced, Chairman Graham adjourned the committee until 2 o'clock, and it is said that nothing further regarding the probe will be done until the committee hears from the nouse of representatives as to whether to continue work.

The events leading up to the resignation came rapidly. Following reports that further sensational testimony against the judge was about to be presented, Judge Hanford himself and Attorney Hughes, his counsel, appeared at the federal building and were closeted with the congressional committee taking testimony. Immediately there was a rumor that President Taft had asked Hanford to resign, but none of those in authority would discuss it. At 10:30 a. m., after a brief conference, Hanford, Hughes and Chairman Graham of the congressional committee, went to the telegraph office and shortly thereafter it became known that the judge had telegraphed his resignation. Fifteen minutes later Graham returned and adjourned the session of the committee until 2 o'clock.

MAY MOVE SHOPS TO LA CRESCENT

Rumor that Milwaukee Road Will Leave North Side if Not Allowed to Build Viaduct

MEN ALREADY ON THE SCENE

Orders Are Issued to Do No Repair Work Until Railroad Commission Decides

Will the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway move its shops and yards to La Crescent from the north side if the city does not allow them to build the viaduct on Rose street in short order? Rumors to this effect are rife among local railroaders, and no official denial or confirmation of the report could be secured today.

It is known, however, that the railroad has already purchased all the land in a triangle bounded by Bridge Switch, River Junction and La Crescent, a space which has ample facilities for the yards and shops if the move is made, and that several gangs of laborers are already on hand.

It is said on good authority that orders have been issued for holding up of all repair work on the buildings and tracks of the road on the north side, except that which is absolutely necessary. The new depot which the road announced a year ago would be constructed shortly, has been held up, also it is said, until the company finds just what action will be demanded of them by the city.

The matter at present rests with the state railroad commission. Some time ago an order was issued by the commission for the construction of a viaduct on Rose street, over which the street railway tracks could be laid, doing away with the dangerous "death crossing" at Mill street, where the cars cross the Milwaukee tracks.

The city objected to the expense entailed upon them through constructing approaches to the viaduct and declared that it was impossible to undertake the work. The matter was then sent back to the railroad commission, with a request that they reopen the investigation and order the railroad company to raise their tracks through the city. This would throw the entire expense of eliminating "death crossing" upon the railroad. It would mean an enormous expense to the railroad.

The railroad commission is now conducting an investigation privately to determine what shall be done. It is not known when their order will be issued. No notice of a hearing has been given.

In the meantime, railroaders with homes on the north side are worried over the possibility that their employment may move into Minnesota, necessitating a general exodus of skilled mechanics from the city.

City Attorney A. H. Schubert laughed when told today of the stories concerning transfer of the railroad shops. He characterized it as gossip and said he put no faith in the rumor.

BARS TAFT ELECTORS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 22.—Attorney General Webb today made public an opinion holding that the Taft electors may not go on the state ballot at the fall election as "republicans" unless Taft carries the state in the primaries in September. The Roosevelt progressives may use the designation "republican," says Mr. Webb, and the Taft men must go on the ballot by petition if they wish to go on it at all.

The governor was tired out Saturday night as a result of more than two weeks of conferring, and handshaking, but today he said he felt rejuvenated.

Governor Wilson expected Senator Reed of Missouri, for conference today.

It was learned defnitely today that Wilson will not resign as governor of New Jersey in order to make the campaign for president. If he is elected, his resignation would make John D. Poince president of the New Jersey senate and a republican acting governor.

Third Party Decides to Put Slate in Field Since Governor Refuses to Recognize T. R.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 23.—After calling on Governor Deneen and the other candidates for state offices on the republican ticket, Medill McCormick, and the progressive committee appointed to make the query, at noon gave out a statement in which they declared that there would be a progresive state ticket in Illinois.

The governor and all of the candidates informed the committee they would support President Taft, as they were the regular nominees.

The statement is signed by all of the members of the committee. Gov. Deneen in his statement, which was followed in substance by all of the other state officers who were interviewed, said:

"I am legally the nominee of the republican party for governor and am morally bound by the obligation of that position. Differences of opinion regarding matters subsequent to my nomination cannot justify a breach of faith on my part, or change the conditions of my nomination. I am making no new appeal, but am standing upon my official record and upon the pledges made to the electors at the primaries and on the platform adopted by my party. My candidacy must stand or fall upon them."

MIKADO RALLIES BUT HOPE IS GONE

Early This Morning Mutsuhito Shows Improvement but Later Developments Are Bad

LOOK FOR COREAN TROUBLE

Troops in Deadiness to Quell Any Uprising when the Emperor Meets Death

TOKIO, July 22.—Following a brief rally early today the mikado is sinking slowly again. His physicians do not believe he can last many hours.

A moderately good night's rest seemed somewhat to have strengthened the imperial patient, when he woke about 6 a. m. He had slept uninterruptedly for fully six hours, and on re-opening his eyes, spoke a few words quite clearly and intelligently. He was also able to swallow a little liquid nourishment. His temperature had fallen, he breathed more freely and his pulse strengthened.

Encourages Doctors

All these favorable symptoms encouraged even the physicians, sure as they had been previously that the case was hopeless and they issued a bulletin stating that though the mikado remained extremely weak, general conditions were improved.

As the day advanced, however, the sufferer again began to lose ground. Consciousness deserted him except at long intervals, and then returned only partially, and but for a few minutes at a time.

Practically no hope is entertained.

The dying ruler's wife snatched a few hours' rest after her husband had fallen asleep, but was awakened, according to her own previous instructions, the moment he opened his eyes, and resumed her virgil at his bedside.

The crown prince Yoshohito strongly urged his physicians today to agree to his own attendance in his father's sick room.. The doctors weakened in the face of his insistence, and are expected to accede to his wishes, if, as expected, the mikado's symptoms continue to grow worse.

Ready for Transfer

The members of the cabinet are all in the palace. The premier has had an interview with the crown prince, and everything is ready for a transfer of the imperial authority to the latter the moment his predecessor has breathed his last.

No disorders are anticipated in Japan incidental to Yoshohito's accession, but concerning Corea there is some uneasiness. The troops are on the alert to nip any such attempt in the bud.

Expressions of sympathy have been received at the imperial palace from all the foreign diplomatic representatives in Tokio and all of them have paid their respects also to the crown prince.

BIG CROP DUE IN LA CROSSE COUNTY

Abundance of Rain This Year Means Prosperity to Farmers; Harvest Begun

SMUT DAMAGES THE OATS

Balmer Advises Formalin Treatment; Corn Well Advanced and Big Yield Promised

One of the best crops in the history of La Crosse county will be harvested this fall according to the report of Professor Frank Balmer of the La Crosse County Agricultural school who has just completed an inspection of the county. Crops of every kind will not go below the average, he declares, while most of them will be far in advance of the crops of former years. Mr. Balmer attributes the good crops to the abundance of rain which has fallen this year and the generally favorable weather which has prevailed.

During the last two weeks Mr. Balmer has been making a tour of the county by towns and procuring data which he will use to the advantage of La Crosse county farmers in future years.

Heavy Hay Crop

The hay crop which is now being harvested is giving one of the largest yields in years, many farmers having reported a yield of two tons per acre and the promise of a second crop this year. Hay land which is not capable of producing another crop this season will make excellent pasturage and a large number of farmers are contemplating this use of the land.

The only crop which does not surpass the average is the grain crop. During the heavy rains which fell in the early spring and the middle of May a large amount of the grain seed was washed under and a large amount was damaged by the late frosts. Despite these handicaps, however, the grain crop will come close to the average of former years.

Smut Attacks Oats

La Crosse county farmers are due to suffer some loss owing to oats beinf affected by smut. Most fields in this county will sustain a loss of from five to twenty-five per cent from this source. Not only will they suffer a loss from this cause this year but if means are not taken to eliminate this evil, it will spread rapidly and in future years the loss will be even greater.

Professor Balmer recommends the use of a formalin treatment as a means of eliminating smut. By sprinkling the seed with a solution composed of one pint of formalin or formaldehyde and forty gallons of water, the smut plague can be entirely eliminated.

Mr. Balmer said today: "One example of the power of this treatment is shown by a certain field of oats in the town of Barre where a portion of the seed was treated. The seed which was treated is practically free from smut while a large percentage of the remainder has been spoiled.

"It costs but about two cents per bushel to treat the seed or about four cents per acre. A twenty per cent loss on a crop, when oats are worth fifty cents per bushel means a loss of $4 per acre. Thus it costs but one per cent of the value of the crop to insure it against destruction from smut."

Oats and barley are also receiving a setback by the "green bug" which has made its appearance in the grain fields this year.

Corn Good

The corn crop is well advanced and promises a big yield considering the late spring and present cold weather. The grade of corn in La Crosse county is far better than in past years owing to the seed testing. Farmers of this county took precautions against planting defective seed last spring owing to the lectures and information given out on this subject at the 1911 farmers' course and as a result this year's crop is withstanding the detrimental elements far better than in past years.

Professor Balmer, when speaking on the subject of adequate crops for La Crosse county, said the farmers of La Crosse should increase the production of alfalfa. This crop is adaptable to any kind of soil and will preserve the soil while other crops will not. Much of the hillside land, which is being washed away owing to the breaking of the soil, could be preserved by the planting of alfalfa which has a tendency to spread, the roots acting as a protecting net to the soil. This is an excellent time to prepare land for the planting of alfalfa for next year's crop.

Mr. Balmer has been making his tour of inspection in behalf of the La Crosse County Order of the State Experiment association, an organization composed of about twenty-five enterprising and progressive farmers of this county. He will continue to collect data during the next month. He has sent information blanks to a large number of farmers requesting detailed information as to their methods of raising alfalfa.

Following is the list of questions contained in the information blank:

What is the character of your soil in alfalfa? Slope? Drainage?

How many acres in alfalfa?

Was your first effort successful?

If you failed did you repeat the trial?

Did you seed all your alfalfa at same time?

At what time of the year did yop seed?

How did you prepare the land for seeding?

What crop did it follow

Rate of seeding?

Method of seeding (broad cast or drilled)?

Did you measure your land previous to seeding?

Apply lime, and amount? Inoculate soil with what?

Is your stand perfect? Has any winter killed?

Did you use hardy varieties?

How many crops have you secured per year?

Yield per year?

What would advise a farmer attempting to secure a stand in regard to preparation of land, time of seeding, amount of seed per acre, etc.?

Excellent crop conditions are prevailing both in Winona and Houston counties and like reports are being received from Monroe, Vernon and Trempealeau counties.

DID THE FASHIONS CAUSE TRAGEDY?

Opinion Expressed by Many that Present Day Styles Caused Murder in Gotham

DENVER, July 22.—"I am guilty. I am insane, caused by the beautiful make-up of women."

These words contained in the written confession of Nathan Swartz detailing why he murdered little Julia Connors in New York recently, have caused a widespread controversy among club women, ministers and others bringing to an acute issue the problem of the present day dress of women.

"Could it be possible that the present day gowns of women, fashioned to bring out the lines of the figure distinctly would have an effect upon man that would bring him to a crime so terrible as the Connors murder?" was the question asked today of a number of prominent persons.

Some of the opinions expressed are:

Governor Shafroth—Of course I'm not up on it in any way, but I cannot see anything wrong in women's costumes. They look pretty good to me. Not ever having had an experience like the Swartz matter, I really could not say whether a sane man could or could not be incited to crime by a tight dress."

Rev. Dr. David H. Fouse—In answer to the first question, I think that the extremes of fashion are improper. About Swartz I think that unquestionably he speaks a widespread commentary of men upon the extremes of feminine dress of the present day.

Mrs. Helen Ring Robinson, club woman and writer—No, I certainly do not think that present day feminine dress is either immodest or immoral. There are women, of course, whose very personalities could make a hoopskirt immodest, but that should not be ascribed to the costume.

Rev. R. F. Coyle—While I think women's clothes of today are far from being proper, I think that any man who committed a crime of that sort simply because the dress caused his admiration, must be a degenerate.

Mrs. R. Chandler Phipps, society woman—In the first place, I do not think that woman's fashionable garb nowadays is immodest. Like anything else, of course, it can be carried to extremes, in which case, it is naturally not right.

Judge Ben Lindsey—Although this is the first time I have ever thought of it, there is a possibility that the man told the truth. In my experience in the children's court, I have found that there is a certain mysterious power of attraction in the person that may incite degenerates to crime.

Dr. R. Stanley Hall, president of Clark university, Worcester, Mass.—While this is an extreme case to my way of thinking, the reason given by Swartz opens up a wide field for careful study. The present day fashions do arouse in the minds of men, and particularly young boys, a feeling of sex consciousness..

Dr. Hall stated it was probably the high altitude that was partially responsible for so-called sex degeneracy in Denver.

By sex degeneracy he explained he meant young persons matured more rapidly in the west than the east, and that the air had the effect of stimulating the passions.

CAN'T ARBITRATE PANAMA MATTER

Senator Simth Holds No Law Pertaining to American Citizens Is Case for Arbitration

WASHINGTON, July 22.—That no law pertaining to American citizens in connection with the Panama canal is a matter for arbitration was asserted by Senator Smith of South Carolina, in a speech in the senate Saturday.

"If we decide," he said, "that our title to the Panama canal zone is such as to make it practically a territory of the United States insofar as our relations with foreign countries is concerned, then it seems to follow that any law we make in reference to our own citizens alone, is not a matter for arbitration.

"The question is whether or not, under the terms of our occupancy of the canal zone, we have the rights, in reference to our shipping there, as we have strictly in the waters of the United States. If we submit the question to arbitration we are all agreed that it will be decided against us. If we propose to give free passage to the vessels of the United States, we will be of necessity bound to remit to them whatever toll is charged."

Smith declared this was equivalent to a subsidy and for that reason he opposed such a plan.

Every little Toastie has a flavor like the other—
Rich and pure, sweet and clean—each bowl invites another.
No fear of indigestion—no doctor's bill to pay,
If you'll only get the habit—eat Post Toasties every day.

WESTCHESTER BOSS DESERTS COLONEL

NEW YORK, July 22.—That William L. Ward, boss of Westchester, had deserted Colonel Roosevelt and the latter's new progressive party, was demonstrated when Ward not only attended Saturday's meeting of the republican state committe, but accepted appointment on the committee which will select the temporary chairman of the coming state committee.

The sub-committee made little progress at its conference today, merely approving a list of names, any of which would be acceptable, as members of the committee. These lists are given to the chairman for submission to the president, who, with Hilles, will make the final selections which will be announced today.

'SKEETER BITE CAUSE OF LOSING HIS ARM

KEARNEY, N. J., July 22.—Not in the history of the state have mosquitoes been so large or so vicious as at present. Their bites are so painful that many persons in this vicinity are forced to remain indoors and even in well screened house it is inadvisable to light lamps at night. Thomas Devoe, 19, of this town, will lose his right arm as the result of a bite. Dr. Edward Stanley, who is attending him, says the youth scratched the bite, and inocculated it with poison.

SOCIALIST PLAN TO GET FUNDS WINNER

CHICAGO, July 22.—Socialist campaign managers were elated today over the certain success of their plan to raise a campaign fund by obtaining one day's wage from all the socialists in the country. Although the members of the party were instructed not to mail their contributions to the headquarters here until today, a total of more than $300 was received Saturday, and today's mails brought still larger amounts.

GIRL IN TRANCE BELIEVES SELF MAN

MEXICO, Mo., July 22.—A strange case of hysteria which at times affects Bessie Stewart, 22, daughter of a farmer living near Wellsville, completely baffles the physicians. While in trances the young woman reads papers and letters in a totally dark room. At other times she apparently believes herself a man, dons a man's hat and coat and smokes a pipe.

GET RID OF RHEUMATISM

Rubbing with liniments, blistering the affected parts, the application of plasters, and other means of external treatment, are usually helpful in relieving the pains and aches of Rheumatism. But such treatment does not get rid of the disease, because it does not reach its source. Rheumatism comes from an excess of uric acid in the blood. This acid acts as an irritant to the nerves, muscles and joints, and produces the inflammation and swelling, and sharp cutting pains characteristic of the trouble.

When the blood is overburdened with uric acid it grows thinner and poorer in nourishing qualities. Then Rheumatism becomes chronic and not only a painful but a dangerous disease. You can get rid of Rheumatism by purifying the blood with S. S. S. This vegetable remedy goes into the circulation, neutralizes and removes the uric acid, and by building up the thin, sour blood, safely and surely cures the disease. S. S. S. makes rich, nourishing blood, which quiets excited nerves, eases the painful muscles and joints and filters out every particle of irritating uric acid from the system. CHICAGO TRIBUNE NOT WITH TEDDY

The most notable contribution to current politics of the fortnight was the editorial in which The Chicago Tribune in its Sunday issue served notice on Theodore Roosevelt that it could not follow him into his third party movement.

The importance of the fact is plain. The Tribune was Roosevelt's original and chief newspaper backer. It may be called the author of the third term program. It has been looked to as the newspaper that must inspire and lead its contemporaries in the organization of the third party.

The Tribune editorially discusses the situation in the progressive field, contending that two distinct factions of the progressives, aiming at a single purpose, desire to accomplish it by radically different methods; one faction would reconstruct the republican party, the other would form a new party.

For emphasis, let us observe that Mr. Roosevelt is the leader of the faction which desires to form a new party, and that Senator La Follette is the leader of the faction which desires to reconstruct the republican party.

The Chicago Tribune says:

"The Tribune is unreservedly in favor of the program of the reconstructionists. It is of the opinion that the most vigorous efforts possible should be put forth in support of the nominee of the progressives. It believes that the wisest policy is to make every effort to secure control of the republican national organization and to turn this great organization into the right road."

This date is rather earlier than we had expected to see so pronounced a disciple of Roosevelt acknowledge defection from his standard in a manner which is per se an acknowledgment that the Wisconsin statesman was right.

THE CAMORRA TRIAL WAS AN ACHIEVEMENT

When it comes to lengthy trials, we have nothing on Italy. The Thaw case and the McNamara cases were long drawn out, but they were brief and businesslike compared with the trial that has just ended at Viterbo, Italy, where two years have been spent in convicting half a hundred members of Italy's notorious criminal society.

Still, we do not mean to imply that the Italian trial was not businesslike. It was very much so, as the results show. The difficulties in the way of the government were greater than the prosecution in any American trial was ever called upon to face. There were well toward a thousand witnesses to be examined, and the wonder is that the trial did not take even longer. But in addition to the mass of evidence to be sifted, there were forces at work against the government that required almost superhuman efforts to combat.

The Camorra is not as bad as some think it, nor so harmless as others imagine, but it is perhaps a greater force than anybody realizes who does not know it at first hand. Imagine Tammany Hall and one of our great secret fraternal orders rolled into one, and then incorporate with them the McNamara gang of dynamiters or the old Molly Maguire organization, and the result would be something like the Italian Camorra. It is a political, a fraternal, a social, a business and a criminal organization, all in one. It has its initiations, its degrees, its leaders, its social code, and a highly perfect business organization for the distribution of ill-gotten gains.

These gains are not simply the plunder gathered by thieves and murderers, as some imagine. They include all kinds of extortions, from an exorbitant hack fare to a grafting government contract. The beggar on the street corner in Naples, the boatman who takes you across the bay, the city official who gives out a job or issues a license, the keepers of evil resorts of all sorts, alike pay their tribute to the Camorra. It has, of course, its low-down criminal element, who plan and execute burglaries, hold-ups and murders under the orders of their chiefs, but it also includes men of high station in business, politics and society, who never soil their hands, but who through fear of cupidity pay homage and tribute to the organization.

Naturally such a gigantic and powerful machine is hard for the government to attack. Every move against it spells possible death for every official concerned, and the gathering or giving of evidence spells almost certain death. The Camorra's long arm reached clear across the Atlantic to take the life of the brave Lieutenant Petrosino of New York who arrested and took back to Europe the infamous Alfano. Many a mysterious Italian murder in an American back street, or in a remote construction camp or miner's shanty, has been due to the unseen hand of the Camorra. For many years the Italian government has tried to break the power of this organization, but never until now with any prospect of success.

The utmost praise and credit are due to the government of Italy, and especially to the brave and honest "carbineers," the semi-military constabulary that guards law and order so effectively. Like credit is due to the judge and the court lawyers, who have doubtless been surrounded by bribes and threats and to the jury who delivered their verdict with the full knowledge that hundreds of desperate men were thirsty for their blood.

The procedure of Italian courts is very free and liberal, with none of the narrow rules of evidence which we enforce in our criminal trials. The defense was allowed to do almost anything it pleased, and the resulting conviction cannot be regarded as having been "railroaded through" by government pressure. This fact is indicated also by the verdict itself, which finds only nine of the defendants guilty of murder. Italy does not have capital punishment, but life sentences mean imprisonment for life as a rule, and not for sixteen years as in most states here. At any rate, the conviction itself is the main factor, for it shows that justice can be enforced even against the Camorra.

On the other hand, why doesn't this third party be out and out about it and instead of organizing under the oaks, hunt up a plum tree.

There isn't a bit of doubt about Woodrow Wilson being able to go through a campaign, but will his lawn stand it?

When an English railway advertised for 300 wooden sleepers, a clergyman offered his entire congregation.

Everybody in favor of the new party make a noise like a gentleman moose.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Changed Views

I used to rant, I used to rail
That more men were not put in jail.

The Judge whose ways were lenient
I always called incompetent.

My words were hot, my words would burn,
I said that Judges should be stern.

I also said in accents rough,
That present jails were good enough.

Since if a fellow acted well
He need not occupy a cell.

But recently, by happenstance,
I broke a city ordinance,

And, as I lacked the cash for bail,
They put me in the city jail.

The cell was hot and close and small
And full of little things that crawl.

For seven hours I stayed in there.
Breathing that foul and fetid air,

And though there was no room to waste,
My narrow cell I paced and paced.

At last they brought me up for trial;
The judge discharged me with a smile.

So I maintain—nor will I budge—
That mercy well becomes a judge.

He should be gentle as he can
With any weak and erring man.

And this I add—and know it's true—
Our jails need looking over, too.
—Berton Braley.

Admonition

The widower had just taken his fourth wife and was showing her around the village. Among the places visited was the churchyard, and the bride paused before a very elaborate tombstone that had been erected by the bridegroom. Being a little nearsighted, she asked him to read the inscriptions, and in reverent tones he read:

"Here lies Susan, beloved wife of John Smith, and Jane, beloved wife of John Smith, and Mary, beloved wife of John Smith."

He paused abruptly and the bride, leaning forward to see the bottom line, read to her horror:

"Be Ye Also Ready."—National Monthly.

Explained

"Have you ever gone into a ticket office to make inquiries concerning the cost of a trip by boat or by rail?"

"Yes."

"And have you ever found the young man who was supposed to be on duty there so calmly indifferent that he declined to give you an answer to any of the questions you were bold enough to put to him?"

"I have had experiences of that kind—yes: Why?"

"Oh, nothing—only you asked me a moment ago how I had skinned my knuckles."—Chicago Record-Herald.

No Way Out

"Papa, wasn't that the man that cheated his sister out of a farm one time?"

"Yes, Bobby."

"Didn't I hear you tell mamma the other day that he was an old rascal'?'

"I presume so."

"Then why did you tell him you were glad to see him?"

"My son, —I—lied to him; that's all."—Chicago Tribune.

Setting Her Right

"You are familiar, I presume, with Johnson's 'Rasselas,'" observed the Boston girl.

"You must have got him mixed with Frank Gotch," said the St. Louis young man; "Johnson's a prize fighter."

Then silence, like a cataplasm, descended to ameliorate the impact of the atmospheric concussion.—Chicago Tribune.

Needed No Guide

"Just as Millet and the widow started up the aisle to the altar, every light in the church went out."

"What did the couple do, then?"

"Kept on going. The widow knew the way."—London Opinion

How's That?

A young man who is close in money matters had the good fortune to marry a girl whose parents are quite rich, and is staying in one of his father-in-law's houses. He had been speaking to a friend, and in the course of conversation the friend asked, "but why did your father-in-law not give you the house?" "Oh," said the young man, "he offered it to me, but I wouldn't accept it." "How's that?" "Well, it's like this. I'm living in the house rent free, and I'll get it when the old man dies. If I took it now I'd have to pay the taxes."—W. S.

You hear a good deal about the fight for principles, but the jobs continue to be the main issue.

Everybody bluffs; it's only the genius at it that doesn't get called.

The Professor's Mystery

Copyright, 1911, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.

I turned, and making my way back to Fifth avenue, took a bus up-town, determining on my way that the moment the door was opened I would slip past the servant and enter the house. With any sort of luck the door should be opened by Jonas, and Jonas, as it seemed to me, was really devoted to Nancy; so that I might question him exhaustively before he even announced me to Mr. Bond. Just what method I would take with Mr. Bond himself I left to circumstance and our meeting. But I made up my mind that he should give me information if he had any, and, in any case, what immediate assistance I needed. I got down from my bus very truculently and with my heart beating wildly at the possibility that my search might need go no further, that perhaps I was to find Nancy again in the place that I first found her. I had rung the bell for the third time in my impatience before I came down to earth. They had seen me, I thought, and would not answer. Then, with a weary certainty, I went down the steps and looked up over the house. The sign of an Electric Protective Company hung in front of the drawn shade of the lower window, as indication to all the world—and more particularly the underworld—that the house was closed and empty and—wired against intrusion.

That I might leave no stone unturned, rather than through any hope of success, I looked up the Lexington Avenue stable, only to find it locked as I had expected. It was like beating against a stone wall. And like a man suddenly thrown into a dungeon and finding suddenly that there is no way of escape, for a little while, I think, I went mad. Nancy was somewhere, probably not far away, and for all my strength and for all my love, I could not find her. The fact dinned itself through my consciousness as I blindly paced the crowded city streets and walked unremembered miles. I brought up again, at last, before the Lexington Avenue stable. Like some one lost in the woods, I had probably walked in a great irregular circle. Now it was late afternoon, and I was utterly tired. I looked about wearily for a place where I might rest and, if possible, bring myself to some condition of reason.

Across the street from the stable, and sandwiched in between a stranded dwelling and a tobacco shop, was a little lunch-room dignified by the name of the "Golden Cafe." The place as I entered it was almost empty, and I took a table in a corner by myself. The red-haired, indifferent boy in charge brought me black coffee. Two women were chatting over tea by the window, and I lingered impatiently over my coffee, waiting for them to leave; for I wanted to have the proprietor to myself. They were an unconscionable time, and I made sure that other patrons would drop in; but no one else came, and at last the women departed, leaving a tip just large enough to put the red-haired boy into a bad humor."

"Do you know," I asked him, "who owns that red-brick stable across the way?"

"What did you say you wanted?" he replied, passing me and speaking across the counter behind me.

"I wanted to know," I repeated, "who owns that stable directly opposite?"

"Dunno," said the boy.

He spoke as if he had paid no attention to my question, so that I turned around for my next and launched it squarely at him. "Well, have you ever heard of Ephraim Bond ?" I asked.

"Nope; want any more coffee?"

"I suppose so," I said, and turned back to my table.

The boy came out from behind his counter, and shuffled past me; and I looked up to see that another customer had entered. He was a small white-haired man, whose pleasant face, with its widely-set, attractive-looking eyes, seemed perfectly familiar. When he had given his order he looked down the room at me, and I bowed, for I was certain that I had met him somewhere. Indeed, he might have been some old friend of my father's, aged now beyond instant recognition, but still a certain memory. He returned my bow nervously, and bent over his food; but once or twice, as I sipped my second cup of coffee, I found his mild eyes studying me. I had forgotten about him, however, and the idle wonder of who he was, when he abruptly slid into the chair opposite me.

"Did I hear you ask, sir," he said in a queer, quiet little voice, "for a man named Ephraim Bond?"

XVI.

We Hold Conference.

For a moment I was too surprised to answer him, but the mild blue eyes never wavered from mine. The lined, old face presented such a gentle courtesy that I nodded without further thought.

"Yes, sir," I replied. "Do you know him, and can you tell me if he is the owner of that stable opposite?"

The old gentleman smiled. "I'll have to make you a Yankee answer, I'm afraid," he said. "Are you a friend of Ephraim Bond's, and what do you want of him?"

I hesitated. I did not want to answer questions, and, even if I answered this, I hardly knew what reply to make to the first half of the question. "I don't suppose I'm exactly a friend," I said at length, "but I'm very anxious to find him. I have been to his house and found it closed, and I had an idea that he owned that stable over there."

"He doesn't," said the old gentleman. And the reply seemed by its very abruptness to end the conversation. Nevertheless, I sat still and waited.

The old gentleman had dropped his eyes, and seemed to be centering all his attention on a little noteless tune he was drumming with long, blunt fingers on the marble table-top. Whenever he finished a particularly difficult run he would glance up at me, for all the world like a shy little boy, and then fall again to his drumming. At last he folded his hands in front of him, and leaned across the table over them.

"Has he hurt you in any way?" he asked.

"I stared at him in amaement. "Why do you ask that?" I said. "Do you know who I am?"

"I am not sure," said the old gentleman. "I was only wondering."

"I'm not sure that he has hurt me, either," I replied; "but I should very much like to find him. Do you know where he is at present?"

The old gentleman rapped sharply with a coin on the table-top. "Our checks, boy, our checks," he said. He motioned away the money I took from my pocket. "No, no," he said, "let me settle; it will save time. You and I need to have a long talk together, and this is no place for it. Will you do me the courtesy of visiting my room?"

"Gladly," I answered and reached for my hat.

PUBLIC DEBATE

Editor Tribune:

Allow me to call public attention to the numerous barns destroyed by lightning, express a theory as to the cause and suggest a means of protection.

I am not an advocate of the idea that a lightning rod is a sure means of safety nor do I dispute the statement often heard that a well rodded building is safer than one not rodded. I leave that to the property owner to fight out with the lightning rod man. Here is my theory. Many barns have a cupola or ventilator made of galvanized sheet iron and having a cone-shaped point, on the highest place on the roof. Inside, close up to the peak of the roof a steel track for the hay fork carrier runs the whole length of the building and perhaps projects several feet outside of the gable. The rope, running from a pulley-block near the floor and its lower end often on the ground outside, connects with the overhead track and forms an imperfect conductor from the track to the earth. But there is a space of a few feet between the track and the iron cupola and, in case of a heavy discharge between the cloud and the earth, a very much alive spark leaps across this space, and away goes the barn.

Now my suggestion for protection. First, connect track and cupola with a broad strip of galvanized iron, so arranged that the carrier of the fork may pass it without interference. (This strip of iron might be twisted in form of a hollow rope if desired.) Second, connect the track at each end by means of a similar strip with a sheet of galvanized iron, not less than two feet square, buried deep enough in the earth to insure constant dampness, say five feet deep. This arrangement will act as a very fair conductor between the earth and the highest point of the barn and is much cheaper than a lightning rod.

The reason I suggest galvanized iron for the connections is that the cupola and track are of iron and electricity does not take kindly to a change of metals when it starts on a picnic. It is liable to jump off in another direction.

As ever yours,
TREMPEALEAU PHILOSOPHER.

GALESVILLE WINS FROM THE NELSONS

One to Nothing Victory Goes to Inlanders; a Pitchers' Battle Throughout

Betzel and Squires, the Nelson's twirler, fought out as brilliant a pitchers' battle as has been seen on the Galesville diamond for some hime and Betzel was returned the victor, 1 to 0., when Galesville gave him a one run margin in the eighth round yesterday. Both hurlers pitched gilt edged ball, but six hits being made by both teams during the afternoon and so effective were the slab artists that none of the batters could solve them to any great extent.

After seven scoreless innings during which the rival pitchers had their opponents at their mercy, Galesville counted its lone tally in the eighth and this proved enough to win as the locals could not shove a run across the platter. In that round Squires passed Johnson and Apel put the runner on second by means of his sacrifice hit. Klenrud settled the game right there, when he shot a single into the right field giving Johnson time to dig his spikes into the plate for the only time the pan was scratched during the afternoon.

Betzel was in great form and but two singles could the Nelsons get off him while Galesville could hit the ball safely for only four one base smashes. Both twirlers had wonderful control with the result that few passes were issued and the batters had to hit the ball. Although he was beaten, Squires pitched a great game and he had his opponents anding the Nelsons easy chances most of the time. Score:

Galesville . . .00000001x	1	4	1
Nelsons 000000000	0	2	1

Batteries: Betzel and Kutchera; Squires and Knuteson.

RED NOSE CLUB SENDS A MESSAGE

"The one who finds this will know that the Red Nose club is camping at Hammond Shute."

Robert Schultz.
Lloyd Katchel.
Elmer Lange.

This is the message sealed in a bottle which was found yesterday by William Freeman while he was fishing in Joe Linn's slough. Sending the message in a bottle as was done centuries ago, it is not known how long the message may have been afloat before it was found. While fishing yesterday, Mr. Freeman noticed the bottle floating in the water and he rowed over to it, finding there was a note inside it. Upon opening the bottle he found the above message from the campers.

Nobody ought really to wish for content, for then he will be dead.

HYMNS DISCUSSED AT 1ST M. E. CHURCH

The auditorium of the First Methodist Episcopal church was filled last evening. The service was devoted to the great hymns of the church and how they came to be written. Rev. Mr. Caple said that he has sat in the seat in the rock where Toplady wrote "Rock of Ages." Mr. John James gave a short biography of the Wesleys and told the story of the bird fleeing from the hawk and taking refuge in Charles Wesley's bosom that caused him to write the hymn, "Jesus, Lover of my Soul." A short biographw of Fannie Crosby was given by Mrs. Bretnall who suggested that those interested in her writings should look up and see just how many of her hymns are used in the church song books. Mrs. Elston spoke of how Lyte's hymn "Abide With Me" came to be written. The doctor had told him that he must give up his work in England and go south for his health and the last Sunday afternoon before leaving he wrote his great hymn. Several others discussed well known hymns.

RAILROADS WARN COAL CONSUMERS

Officials Urge Dealers to Lay in Winter Supply; Car Shortage Is Probable

It may seem a "far cry" between the harvesting of grain crops beneath a warm, autumn sun and the laying in of the winter's coal supply, but the Great Northern railroad officials see close relationship if instructions that have been issued throughout the northwest are a criterion.

Local agents throughout the grain producing territory touched by this railroad have received instructions to induce as many coal shippers, dealers and consumers as possible to fill every available bin with coal before the grain transportation season arrives. Not only have the freight agents of the railroads received these requests, circulars have been sent to thousands of coal shippers and dealers asking them to cooperate with the railroads in the movement. Users of freight cars are asked to get their loading and unloading facilities in good working order that all rolling stock may be in use at all times.

Special Car Supply Planned

Some of the railroads whose lines cross the northwest have signified their intention of cutting out large numbers of cars for use in this territory only during the grain moving season.

The Great Northern railroad is said to anticipate a movement of 30,000,000 bushels of grain in and from Montana alone. It is expected that if present conditions continue the grain yield of Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, will approximate 240,000,000 to 250,000,000 bushels.

Following is an excerpt from the circular sent throughout this section by H. A. Jackson, assistant traffic manager:

"We anticipate an extraordinarily heavy movement of traffic this fall and unless a large quantity of coal is moved during the next two months we are apprehensive that privation and suffering may be experienced next winter on account of insufficient fuel in the country. All interested should therefore make special efforts to stimulate the early movement and put in a full supply of coal at once."

Taxing of Roads Expected

If the crops of the northwest states and Canada prove to be as enormous as the predictions and present conditions indicate the transportation facilities are going to be taxed to a greater extent than ever before.

PRIEST HERO OF REBEL ATTACK

Passes Through Fire and Persuades Zapatista Leader to Stop Fire on Wrecked Train

MEXICO CITY, July 22.—A priest is today hailed as the hero of the massacre near here, when Zapatistas attacked a Mexico-Cuernavaca train, resulting in the death of eighty-four persons. Wounded now being cared for in hospitals today declared that more would undoubtedly have been slain but for the bravery of the priest who walked directly through the fire of the rebels, and seeking out De Lao, their leader, exclaimed: "Genevevo, what are you doing? Would you have the blood of innocent people on your soul?"

The firing immediately ceased and the rebels withdrew.

Relief trains are still running between Mexico City and the scene of the wreck and slaughter today. Forty-three soldiers are known to have been killed. The bodies of nine passengers have been recovered, and of the remaining 23 missing a majority are believed to have been killed and their bodies consumed in the burning cars which were fired by the rebels.

CHINA IS DUE TO SPLIT

REPUBLIC LIABLE TO DIVIDE INTO TWO COUNTRIES IF ROW BETWEEN PARTIES DOES NOT END

SHANGHAI, July 22.—China's division into two republics—Northern and Southern—is imminent today. The national assembly's recent rejection of all President Yuan's new cabinet appointments made it plain, however, that the radicals had decided that Yuan is too conservative. Now the radicals have announced they mean to elect Sun Yat Sen. The radicals have ample strength to carry the southern provinces, but Yan is all powerful in the north. There is great danger that civil war will attend the split.

INCREASE FUND FOR U. S. LANDS

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The senate Saturday afternoon announced a generous policy with regard to appropriations for public lands. Senator Smith of Arizona secured passage of an amendment increasing from $450,000 to $700,000 the appropriation for surveys and resurveys of lands. An amendment to provide $5,000 for protection and preservation of national monuments—including the petrified forest, natural bridges and other freaks of nature—was adopted. The house appropriation of $300,000 for geological surveys was raised to $400,00.

BRYAN IN 1916

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., July 22.—William Jennings Bryan was endorsed for president in 1916 by the Fifth district nominating convention in session here. The resolution introduced by W. N. Cole, passed unanimously.

WHEN YOUR HAIR BRUSHES OUT

Your hair is as sensitive as your skin—even more so. It stands up under heavy hats, curling irons, and diseases of the scalp, etc.——But there is a limit.

When you comb and brush your hair in the morning, watch for the "TRAILERS" that turn grey, fall out, and comb out with the first morning brush.

You MUST know that there's something wrong. If your hair was in good health, it wouldn't fall out, nature never intended that. There is something wrong at the root of things—the hair needs a tonic—a restorer.

When you are sick you take medicine. That is your first thought. Its turning grey, falling out, are both ways the hair has of "complaining of illness." It can't do it in any other way.—Do YOUR part. Use—

OYEN BUILDING WILL BE MODERN

New Structure on Main Street When Completed This Fall Will Be Ornament to Town

The plans show that the new Oyen building, to be constructed on Main street between Fifth and Sixth, will be one of the most modern buildings in the city when it is completed. It is to be a three story building with a store on the first floor, office rooms on the second floor and a studio on the third floor.

Percy Dwight Bentley, the well known local architect, drew the plans for the building and he announces that it should be finished before the end of the year. The foundation of the building is partly in and the general contract was let Saturday to Peter Nelson.

Perfectly fireproof, the new building will be a model one in every respect. The front will be artistic as well as different from any other in the city and in a class by itself, and made out of cut stone and tapestry brick. The construction of the building is also new as instead of employing reinforced concrete in the work reinforced hollow tile is to be used.

Practically the only wood which will be used in the construction of the building is the inside trim around the doors and windows, so the structure will be fireproof in every way. The floors in the rooms and the halls will be composition with no seams whatever in them.

The first floor, on which will be the store, will be up-to-date in every way and will be perfectly lighted, as well as being one of the finest stores in the city. Three suites of office rooms will be located on the second floor and the studio is to be on the third floor.

CHARGES GRAFT AGAINST PRESIDENT OF MINERS' FEDERATION MAY CAUSE SECESSION

CRIPPLE CREEK, Col., July 22. Secession from the Western Federation of Miners by members of the Industrial Workers of the World is threatened today as the result of the trial by the miners' annual convention, now in session, of charges against President Charles Moyer and other executive officers. Thomas Campbell of Butte, accused Moyer and the others of misuse of money and of general corruption and the convention ordered a trial of the accused men and also of Campbell. If Moyer is acquitted, he will demand the summary expulsion of Campbell. The latter, if expelled, is expected to take with him all the I. W. W. members and form a rival organization.

The convention in executive session today continued the trial of Moyer. It is believed that he will control the convention, and that he and his associates will be exonerated.

VETERANS TO HOLD REUNION

Judge Edward Cronon today received invitations to reunions of civil war veterans at Eau Claire to be held October 3, and at West Union, Iowa, to be held during August. A coincidence called to the attention of Judge Cronon by the secretary of the Eau Claire company is that their reunion will be held on the anniversery of the closing of Judge Cronon's career as a soldier. On October 3, 1863, Judge Cronon's left arm was nearly severed during an engagement and was amputated a few hours later.

MODERN "SIAMESE" TWINS FROM THE PHILIPPINES HERE TO CONSULT EXPERTS

The Godrana Twins.

Two little Fillipino boys, bright and healthy as average children of their age, but joined together from birth by living tissue, much like the famous Siamese twins of half a century ago, have just reached New York, where they will be examined by medical authorities with a view to finding if they can be separated. The twins are the children of Carlos Godrana, a wealthy planter of the island of Samar, and are 3 1-2 years of age. Physicians in the orient who have been consulted, maintain that an operation would be fatal, as the twins seem to have but one stomach between them.

U. S. WON'T FEED ATTACHES' HORSES

WASHINGTON, July 22.—By a decision of the comptroller of the treasury today, American military attaches at foreign embassies will have to pay for forage for their mounts unless they own them. Some time ago the war department thought it advisable that these attaches might hire horses and thereby save expenses of transporting them across the ocean. Lieut. Co. J. F. Landis Reynolds did this and now he is unable to collect $372 he spent for keeping his horse. The comptroller holds that inasmuch as he did not own the horse the treasury will not make good the amount he spent for forage.

DYING POLICEMAN SHOOTS HIMSELF

Mortally Wounded by the Brother of Man Under Arrest, He Fires Last Shot Into Brain

FAIRMONT, W.Va., July 22—Hundreds of armed men, headed by Sheriff George Amos, and several policemen followed bloodhounds through Marion county today in a futile search for two brothers, one of whom is accused of having shot Policeman Otis Shaver of Monongahela.

Although he was mortally wounded, Shaver ended his own suffering by firing the last cartridge of his weapon through his brain.

Shaver tried to arrest Vincenzo Ageloni, wanted in connection with a stabbing a year ago. While he was walking the prisoner through the streets, another man said to be a brother, fired twice at Shaver. He fell, but arose and fired all but one cartridge at his assailant. Then he collapsed again. Several friends rushed to him, but he waved them aside, shouting to Warren Davis, the foremost: "Keep away, Brother, I am all in." Then he shot himself.

WINONA BEATS THE CLOTHIERS 4 TO 1

With five of the members of the Winona Minny league team in the line-up, the Schellhas nine of Winona handed the La Crosse Clothing company nine a 4 to 1 defeat at League park yesterday afternoon. Three errors by the locals in the third inning gave the visitors three runs and this also gave them the game.

Hillicker, the Winona Minny league pitcher, toed the slab for the Schellhas and he held the Clothiers to three hits, but Bartels, pitching for the Clothiers, also twirled a grand game and Winona could get but five hits off him.

The three runs which Winona got in the third inning when the locals made three errors practically settled the game, as this was too much of a lead to overcome. They added another counter in the sixth. Two baggers by Griffin and Bartels gave the Clothiers their lone run.

In the fifth inning the locals started a rally but hard luck beat them out of winning the game. They filled the bases in that round with nobody out, but the next three batters fanned.

FORMER ONALASKA MAN IS DEAD

Friends in Onalaska today received word from Iron River that Carl Hobbs, formerly of Onalaska, died there yesterday.

Mr. Hobbs, who was 53 years old, was an old resident of Onalaska, and while there he was a riverman. He moved to Iron River twenty years ago and he has resided there ever since that time. He was chairman and supervisor of Iron River.

He is survived by his widow, his mother, six children, one brother, Adelbert Hobbs of Duluth, Minn., and one sister, Mrs. Horace Moore of Minneapolis.

The body will be brought to Onalaska Wednesday morning for burial.

GROCERS READY FOR BIG PICNIC

Plan Annual Outing at Myrick Park Wednesday; Long Program and Many Prizes

With the weather man bribed or cowed into admitting that Wednesday will probably be a fine day, the grocers of La Crosse are preparing to make that day their real holiday of the year, when with wives, children and friends they journey to Myrick park for their annual picnic. For two weeks two big able bodied committees have been working such as committees seldom work to make the big affair a success, and the only prediction that is safe at this time is that it will be a success.

Prizes for the many events of teh day, athletic and otherwise, have been collected, assorted and labeled, long lists of refreshments and substantial picnic food have been prepared, committees have been named to take charge of the program at the park, and in short everything that can be done in advance to make the picnic an enjoyable affair has been done.

Every grocery store in the city will be closed all day Wednesday to allow the business men to attend the picnic. The program will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning and the list of events is long enough so that there will be "something doing" all day long. Meals and other refreshments will be served by the grocers to their customers at the grounds.

It is expected that a huge crowd will be present.

WINONA POLICE SEND GIRLS HERE

WINONA, Minn., July 22.—When they purchased a revolver at one store, cartridges at another and attempted to buy a flashlight at another, the police took in two girls, Margaret Stevens and Rexie Browning, both 19 years old, who said their homes were in Kansas City, Mo. The bluecoats were not thoroughly satisfied at the actions of the girls after a "tip" had put them on the trail earlier in the day. At the demand of Chief Kammerer they left the city on the Northwestern train for La Crosse. Police believe they were acting as spotters for a gang of crooks.

BOARD MAY OIL COUNTY ROADS

Many Improvements Are Planned This Year on the County Highways

The summer of 1913 will be a record breaker in the good road movement of La Crosse county, according to Supervisor Joseph Giefer. Mr. Giefer said that when the county board meets in August, almost the entire meeting will be confined to discussion and plans for the 1913 road improvement of La Crosse county and he predicts that the work will be carried on with greater enthusiasm than ever before.

Members of the county board are now planning for an appropriation to purchase a large amount of road oil to be used as a road binder. A great deal of trouble has been experienced by the roads being run down by heavy traffic, owing to the softness of the earth and it is probable that some chemical compound will be used in next season's work to bind the road.

The various towns throughout the county will announce their plans for next year's road improvements at the meeting of the county board and appropriations made for the purpose of drawing state aid will be announced. The counties appropriation will also be made at this meeting and will probably equal that of the towns.

AMERICANS GUARD HOMES IN MEXICO

500 U. S. Citizens Employed in Madera Are in Danger from Rebel Soldiery

WOMEN AND CHILDREN LEAVE

Special Train Takes Away All but Men Who Remain to Guard Their Property

EL PASO, Texas, July 22.—Attempts by rebels to disarm Americans and the searching of American homes at Madera, Chihuahua, has resulted in a clash between 500 American employes and rebel soldiers under Gen. Campos. Since Saturday anti-American riots have been in progress in Madera and armed Americans have been guarding their homes and defying the riotous rebels.

So critical has the situation become that the Madera company ordered all American women and children sent to the border and provided a special train for them, which arrived this morning. Madera has been the concentrating point for rebels on their way to Sonora and is the seat of the Pearson company's big lumber industries. The population is largely American and English.

The firing of one shot by an American in Madera will, it is feared, start the massacre.

MILLIONS TO DEFEND THE PANAMA CANAL

WASHINGTON, July 22. — That Uncle Sam will carry out effectively that provision in the Hay-Pauncefort treaty giving the United States power to "protect" the Panama canal, is indicated in the items for fortification and armament of the zone, today before the senate as a part of the sundry civil appropriation bill. The total for defenses is $2,806,250. The items are: Sea coast batteries, $1,000,000; submarines, $220,000; field fortifications and camps, $200,000; purchase, manufacture, and test of sea coast cannon, $500,000; ammunition, $575,000.

WOMAN SUES RAIL COMPANY FOR $10,000

Suit was started against the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railroad company today in circuit court of Trempealeau county by Mrs. S. E. Mitchell of Trempealeau, formerly of La Crosse. The suit was filed by her attorneys, Morris and Hartwell. She demands $10,000 for injuries which she alleges she received at Spooner, Wis., August 1, 1911. She alleges that because of the action of two employes of the company in placing several pieces of baggage behind her when she was not looking, she fell and broke her kneecap, as a result of which she is permanently lame. The case will come up in the September term of court.

LOCAL GOLFERS AT BIG TOURNAMENT

A team of La Crosse golfers left this morning for Milwaukee, where the state tournament is to be held at the Blue Mound club, beginning tomorrow morning and continuing the rest of the week. The Yule cup is one of the prizes which is up for competition. The following local men left this morning to take part in the tournament: Fred Hankerson, Alfred James, J. M. Hixon, Robert Gordon, George Van Auken, Chas. Colman and Emil Niemeyer.

TELLS SENATE IT TALKS TOO MUCH

WASHINGTON, July 22.—A little sermon on the "Sin of Speech-making" was given to surprised senators this afternoon by Senator Warren of Wyoming. He insisted that there was too much talking and too little legislating.

Senator Falls, N. M., was so impressed that he abandoned an announced speech.

SHOWS BOB'S POSITION

ROGERS' REFUSAL TO DISCUSS RESIGNATION SHOWS WHERE SENATOR STANDS

MADISON, Wis., July 22.—Wisconsin National Committeeman A. T. Rogers, law partner of Senator R. M. La Follette today declined to discuss his admitted refusal to serve as a member of the Taft campaign advisory committee, a position to which he was appointed Saturday by National Chairman Hilles. Importuned to give out a formal statement reviewing his reasons for refusing to aid the Taft men, Rogers refused.

State political leaders were more than ever of the opinion the action of Rogers, who is as close as any man to Senator La Follette, means that La Follette will remain silent in the coming republican campaign, expressing no sentiment for either candidate.

Labor Member of Parliament Angered by Government Refusal to Help Strikers

O'Grady Declares He Will Not Sit with Law-makers While Others Starve

LONDON, July 22.—Cursing the British government for its refusal to intervene in the dock workers' strike, James O'Grady walked out of the house of commons today, swearing that he would not keep his seat among the law-makers, while women and children starved to death.

O'Grady had been asking Premier Asquith what the administration proposed to do towards a settlement of the strike situation, had received the reply that further efforts by the government were impossible, had demanded a debate on the subject and received a refusal from the speaker.

"This is a damned scandal," he cried, tearing up his notes and scattering them broadcast with a furious gesture. Before the speaker could call him to order, he had left the chamber.

AFTER MISSIONARIES

BELIEVED JAPANESE ARE TRYING TO FIND PRETEXT TO DRIVE U. S. EMISSARIES FROM KOREA

MARBIN, July 22.—Japanese secret service agents arrived here today from Seoul to take possession of papers which Russian authorities found on about 100 Koreans, charged with complicity in a plot to assassinate ex-Premier Prince Katsura of Japan, when he passed through recently enroute to St. Petersburg.

Suspicion exists that evidence is being manufactured against American and Canadian missionaries in Korea, where 123 natives, on trial for participation in an anti-Japanese conspiracy, implicated the missionaries by their original confessions, and then knocked the props from under their prosecution by repudiating the confessions in open court.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Investigation of alleged mistreatment in Korea of American missionaries was begun today by the state department. Senator Bacon of the senate foreign relations committee, asked that protection be given the Americans by diplomatic representation. By alleged confessions, wrung by torture, it is said, from Koreans, the government is trying to find excuse to expel all missionaries. Protest was also lodged by Senator Bacon at the Japanese embassy.

ROGERS REFUSES TO WORK FOR TAFT

MADISON, Wis., July 22.—Alfred T. Rogers, republican national committeeman for Wisconsin, law partner and close political and personal friend of Senator La Follette, Saturday night received notice of his appointment by Chairman Hilles to the national campaign committee. He at once telegraphed Mr. Hilles it was "impossible for him to accept" an appointment upon this committee. Mr. Rogers refused to make any comment upon his appointment and declined to state his reasons for refusing to serve.

FORMER SENATOR RACES WITH DEATH

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 22.—Former United States Senator W. D. Washburn, who has been passing the past six months on a European tour, is on his way home on a special train over the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie railroad in a race against death, to his home in this city, and his physicians and members of his family who are with him hope that his life may be prolonged until he reaches here, which will be sometime tomorrow.

A BLUE MONDAY IN COUNTY COURT

Many Cases Up for Trial When Judge Gets Back from Vacation

TWO PEDDLERS ARE FINED

Accused of Selling Starched Muslin for "Smuggled Irish Linen"

It was a "blue Monday" indeed that greeted Judge John Brindley when he stepped to the bench in county court this morning after his return from a two weeks' vacation at Lake Chetek. Whether the judge's return had anything to do with it or not or whether it was a case of "too much Saturday night," the fact remains that there were more cases up for trial and a bigger variety of charges today than any one day for several months. When the noon hour arrived three had been sent to jail, two had been fined, one was dismissed and one case was postponed.

Mirchione Lubiango and Salaxatore Lantaluciox, peddlers, were arraigned in county court today on two charges, one of peddling without a license and the other of obtaining money under false pretenses. They pleaded guilty to the first charge and were fined $50 and costs apiece. They pleaded not guilty to the second charge and will stand trial before Judge John Brindley at 2 p. m. Thursday.

State Agent E. E. Blashek, who signed the complaint, alleges that the two men were found selling what they called Irish linen to several of the housewives of the city and that the goods on examination proved to be nothing but starched muslin. They are accused of pretending that the goods had been smuggled into this country and for that reason they were able to sell it for twenty cents a yard when it would ordinarily cost eighty cents a yard. They are said to have used sleight of hand tricks in cutting off samples for their customers' inspection, slipping the real piece that they cut off the bolt into their pocket with the scissors and substituting a piece of real linen as the sample.

When questioned by the officers of the court this morning both men pretended that they could not understand English although they were able to talk freely with the police Friday when they were arrested.

George Galster, who has been the object of a search by the police for two months, was arrested Saturday night and arraigned in court today on a statutory charge. Annie Barret, his partner in disgrace, was sentenced to 60 days last April. Galster pleaded guilty today and received a like sentence.

Anton Jacobson and Bert Lang, accused by Ane Williams, a peddler, of striking him with a whip, pleaded guilty and were fined $5 and costs each.

Declaring that a certain neighbor woman persisted in gossiping about him to his wife and that his wife took up her side of the question when he ordered her from the house, Ed Gilles pleaded not guilty to disorderly conduct today. His story awakened the sympathy of Judge Brindley to such an extent that he was allowed to go with the promise that he would use milder methods in regulating the affairs of his household in the future.

KENNETH FERRIER DIES OF "PLAGUE"

After being ill for four months, Kenneth Ferrier, aged 17, 714 La Crosse street, died of tuberculosis at his home at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ferrier and he is well known in the city. He was an usher at the Lyric theater for some time.

Surviving him are his father, mother, four brothers and two sisters.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the residence at 2 o'clock and from the First resbyterian church at 2:30 o'clock, with Rev. D. C. Jones officiating at the services.

Being Practical.

Practical people are wise people. Genius may create brilliant ideas, and be of a very active turn of mind, but money makes the mare go, and what practical people really wish is to have a pot, to have that full of potatoes, and to have fire enough to make the pot boil.

REMAIN ON BALLOTS

TAFT ORGANIZATION SUIT TO KEEP ROOSEVELT ELECTORS OFF REPUBLICAN TICKET IS THROWN OUT

TOPEKA, Kas., July 22. — The Kansas supreme court today handed down a decision holding that the names of the Roosevelt presidential electors must remain on the primary ballots, and that the voters can express their choice between Taft and Roosevelt as the republican nominees in Kansas.

The court held that the row in the party should never have been brought into the courts, as it was purely political, and ordered all suits dismissed.

The Taft leaders brought suit to have the names of the Roosevelt electors removed from the regular republican ballots.

GAS COMPANY TO PAY LARGER TAX

Board of Review Sets Rate on $925,000, the 1912 Assessment; Commission Overruled

The La Crosse Gas and Electric company will pay tax on an assessment of $925,000 for 1912 despite the fact that the State Railway Commission placed the value of the company's property at $711,000 for rate purposes. This is the result of the final finding of the board of review which adjourned Saturday.

Last year the company was assessed at $925,000. This assessment was duplicated again this year whereupon the matter was taken before the board of review, the company claiming that the railway commission had placed the value of the property at a figure $214,00 lower than that of the assessor. City Attorney A. H. Schubert received information from the state tax commission declaring that for tax purposes, property is assessed at its actual selling value instead of the amount of money spent to create the property. The railway commission on the other hand places value by the actual amount invested. The board of review rendered a decision upholding the assessment of $925,000.

PLANTED COINERS TOOLS FOR REVENGE

CHICAGO, July 22.—The federal authorities are holding Dave Galos and Samuel Abrahams, of Chicago, and Captain Porter of the secret service said that prosecution would be begun at once in Louisville, Ky., against Mrs. Sophia Hoffman, on account of an alleged plot to convict William Friedman of 1725 West 13th street, of counterfeiting.

According to Capt. Porter, Galos confessed to him that at the instance of Mrs. Hoffman and Abrahams he brought counterfeiting molds and placed them in the home of Friedman and then "tipped" the authorities as to their location. Friedman was a witness recently in a white slave case against Abrahams and the Hoffman woman. The case was dismissed, but Galos said, according to Porter, that the two wanted to avenge themselves upon Friedman.

STRIKE HELD UP AWAITING REPORT

BOSTON, July 22.—Central labor union officials today explained that the reason for that body's action yesterday in postponing the sympathetic strike of 80,000 workers affiliated with the American Federation of Labor in aid of the Boston elevated railway employes, was mainly because they were confident Governor Foss will effect a speedy settlement, when he receives today the report of the state board of arbitration. It is generally understood that the report favors the strikers, although condemning the violence which has marked the struggle.

HOSPITAL WANTS ASPHALT PAVING

Special Meeting of Council Called to Consider Mormon Coulee Improvement

A petition signed by the board of directors of the Lutheran hospital, asking a re-consideration by the city council relative to the brick paving of the Mormon Coulee road near the hospital, will be presented at the meeting of the city council tonight according to city officials. Owing to the noise caused by driving over brick paved streets, the directors of the hospital wish to have some other material used which will deaden the sound. It is believed that they will advocate the use of asphalt or wooden blocks with creosote.

Application for permission to give a carnival on the north side will be made by the North Side Amusement association. Permission will doubtlessly be granted, say members of the council today.

Owing to the absence of Mayor John Dengler and Alderman Joseph Houska, Alderman W. P. Roellig will preside. The delegates to the annual convention of the Wisconsin League of Municipalities left for Wausau this morning and will be in attendance at the opening session tomorrow morning. The delegates are: Mayor John Dengler, George Falk of the board of public works, and Aldermen Joseph Houska, Joseph Schneeberger, P. W. Mahoney, William Torrance and Bert Smith. The convention will adjourn Thursday afternoon.

GIFFORD URGED TO ENTER RACE

Democrats Making Efforts to Procure a Second Candidate for County Clerk Job

That an effort is being made to induce Robert Gifford, clerk of the board of public works, to announce his candidacy for the position of county clerk on the democratic ticket, is the assertion made by local democrats today. The attempt to push Gifford into the race is said to be due to aprehension of defeat caused by the announcement of the candidacy of T. F. Jolivette.

It is generally acknowledged that Mr. Jolivette is not sufficiently well known to add strength to the democratic ticket.

Mr. Gifford when approached on the subject today declared that he would not enter the race under any circumstances. Leading democrats declare that his refusal to run will only lead to efforts to prepare some other strong candidate and many predict Jolivette will not be the only man on the democratic ticket for this position when primary election day arrives.

Jacob Padesky, former deputy city clerk, was approached by members of the democratic committee in regard to entering the race but he declined to do so.

The following ticket for the coming election was announced following a conference of leading democrats at the office of A. C. Wolfe Saturday afternoon:

For congressman—W. F. Coffland, Viroqua.

For state senator—R. W. Davis, Bangor.

For assemblyman, First district—C. L. Hood, La Crosse.

For assemblyman, Second district—Assemblyman E. J. Kneen, Bangor.

For sheriff—Mike McHugh, Holmen.

For county clerk—T. F. Jolivette, French Island.

For county treasurer—William Garbers, La Crosse; E. R. Pack, Bangor.

For register of deeds—T. J. Ritter, La Crosse; Benjamin Shove, Onalaska.

For district attorney—D. S. Law.

For coroner—Herman Langstadt.

For surveyor—Chas. M. Jarvis.

Attorney A. C. Wolfe was urged to run for the position of district attorney but declared he was unable to enter the race owing to the demands of his personal law practice. He declared today that the ticket is one of the strongest ever entered by La Crosse county democrats and predicts that the ticket will carry the county.

Vanity.

When the kahn of the Tartars, who does not possess a house to live in and only subsists on rapine, has finished his dinner of milk and horseflesh, he has it proclaimed by a herald, "All the potentates, princes and great men of the earth may now sit down at table."

First Religious Book in America.

The first religious book published on the American continent was printed in the City of Mexico by order of the Roman Catholic bishop there. This was the first work of any kind from movable type issued in the new world and bears date 1645. In point of collaborators the most pretentious work published on this continent is "The Catholic Church in the United States," which has six thousand different coauthors, all but a dozen of whom are actively identified in some way with the American hierarchy.

More by Shakespeare.

The broad back of Shakespeare has still another load to bear; it seems that he wrote the Psalms. The word "Shakespeare" contains four vowels and six consonants; 4 and 6 placed together signify 46; in the 46th psalm the 46th word is "shake," and the 46th word from the end its "spear"

Chicago Grain Letter

CHICAGO, July 22. — Activity marked the opening of the wheat market today and prices early started downward. Initial quotations were lower than Saturday's close. A feeble rally later in the day failed to hold and prices went lower at today's close. Heavy receipts and the enormous amounts of wheat now headed for Chicago from growing centers were chief factors in influencing the market today. Liverpool ruled higher on firmer cargo markets, and a strong continental demand.

Corn started lower, but braced later, rallying almost to Saturday's average figures.

Oats were higher on the start, a heavy demand for July contracts scoring a sharp advance.

Provisions weakened after a few hours' trading, and closed slightly lower than on Saturday.

A Sure Test.

"Have you proposed yet to that North Side girl?" "I can't seem to get a chance." "Can't get a chance, eh? Better turn your attention elsewhere, then. If your girl wished it, you would get a chance all right enough."

Unexpected Flippancy.

We hardly look for humor in a medical dictionary, yet one recently published defines "shout" as "an unpleasant noise produced by overstraining the throat, for which great singers are paid well and small children are punished."

HURLS NO HIT NO RUN GAME

Blank of Summits Lets Park Store Down 11 to 0; Only 29 Men Bat in Contest

Blank, pitcher for the Summits, yesterday attained the goal for which all twirlers are striving by hurling a no-hit, no-run game, shutting out the Park store team by the count of 11 to 0. Blank pitched an almost perfect game, only twenty-nine facing him during the afternoon and two men only reached first base, those getting there on errors.

With such pitching the Summits had no trouble in winning over the Park store. Blank did not issue a pass during the afternoon and had it not been for the two errors not a man would have reached first base on him, a record which has been made but by few twirlers. Seven of the Park store team were set down on strikes.

Bell, on the slab for the Park store, was touched up for eleven bingles including doubles by Bettin, Balduzzi and Blank, the twirler slamming out a pair. The Park store did not give their twirler the best of support, four errors being made behind him. Bell fanned fourteen batters.

The fielding of Balduzzi, third baseman, who accepted eight chances without an error, was a feature.

The Park store team has disbanded and Bell, pitcher, has rejoined the Summits. Score:

	R	H	E
Summits	11	11	2
Park store	0	0	4

Batteries: Blank and Oeltjendier; Bell and Johnson.

REPUBLIC'S HEAD AFRAID OF CARS

WASHINGTON, July 22.—President Adolfo Diaz of Nicaragua, wants help. He has asked the state department to grant it. Diaz wants to discharge his minister of war, Gen. Luis Mena, but up to the present time has been afraid that if he fired Mena, that individual would respond with a revolution and a few executions. In the middle of that dilemma, the Vicksburg reached Corinto. Immediately Diaz applied for permission to go aboard for a few days. It was understood here that during that period, while sheltered by armor plate, and guarded by Uncle Sam's blue jackets, Diaz planned to fire Mena.

The state department referred the matter back to the commander, with instructions for him to use his discretion.

FAN-ATICAL FANCIES

Charlie Weigent's fielding was the feature of one of the recent games between Superior and Hastings. Meinert, Lizzett, Dreis and Bond are playing on the Superior club and all are doing good work.

* * * *

Fred Curtis, former pilot of the Winona Pirates(is now playing first baes for Superior and his hitting and fielding are proving big helps to that club. Calhoon and McKee, also of the Pirates, are with the Aurora club of the W.-I. league.

The once invincible Detroit Tigers are a sample of the way in which a championship team goes back. The club which won three pennants in a row started slipping in 1910 and this year there are very few of the men who helped win those pennants still with Jennings. The veterans are disappearing slowly until very few of the old champs are in the present line-up. Detroit will have a hard time getting their team back into championship class for they do not appear to very formidable this season.

* * * *

Two base ball managers were discussing luck and the attack made upon one team by a sporting writer. It ran something like this:

"I'd like to see a game of ball played once as the game should be played."

"How's that?"

"Played by real experts."

"How would that game be played?"

"Well, I'd have an infield made up of sporting editors, a bleacher enthusiast to pitch, with an outfield composed of grandstand fans."

During a recent New York-Washington game George McBride, the National shortstop, did not have a single chance in the field; not a put-out or an assist. This is believed to be a world's record for a shortstop.

McBride himself says that during his long experience as a shortstop Wednesday was the first time he did not handle a ball in a nine-inning game.

Manager Griffith is also authority for the statement that a world's baseball record was established.

"I have been in the game longer than McBride," said Griff, "and I never before heard of a shortstop going through nine innings without handling the ball.
